Fish for the future

Abalone fishing is a popular Western Australian recreational fishing activity, with about 17,446 licences in the 2023/24 season.

The length of the open recreational fishing season for abalone in the West Coast Zone may be adjusted each year to ensure recreational catch is managed in a sustainable manner.

The current West Coast Zone (Zone 1) recreational catch allocation is set at 23.6 tonnes.

Licences

You must have a current recreational fishing for abalone licence and be prepared to produce it if required. Apply for a new licence or renew an existing licence online on our website at fish.wa.gov.au. Alternatively, application forms are available from Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (DPIRD) offices.

Note: If you are using a powered boat to reach your fishing spot, you will need a Recreational Fishing from Boat Licence.

Don't fish for other people

Recreational fishers are only permitted to collect abalone for themselves and not for other people, even if they are part of the same group.

Seasons and locations

Recreational fishers may only fish for or take abalone during the open season in the Zone they are fishing in.

West Coast Zone (Zone 1)

The West Coast Zone extends from Busselton Jetty to the Greenough River mouth. This incorporates all islands within the zone including Rottnest, Carnac, Garden and Penguin Islands.

Open season: The following Saturdays from December 2024 to February 2025 (inclusive) 7:00 am – 8:00 am.

- 14 December 2024
- 11 January 2025
- 1 February 2025
- 15 February 2025.

Changes that may affect fishing days in Zone 1: If in-season monitoring shows it is necessary to protect stocks, fishing days may be reduced. If monitoring shows an additional opportunity can be provided based on the recreational sector's catch share, the season may be extended.

Changes to fishing days may occur if poor weather conditions are forecast. DPIRD will take action on the advice of Surf Life Saving Western Australia to close the fishery 'for safety reasons'. Fishers are reminded that local water conditions can vary between fishing locations and fishers must take responsibility for their own safety. At no time should fishers enter the water unless they are confident in their ability to handle the sea conditions.

Diving: Recreational fishers must not use SCUBA or hookah (surface-supplied compressed air) gear to take abalone in the West Coast Zone (Zone 1).

Northern Zone (Zone 2)

The Northern Zone which extends from Greenough River Mouth to the Northern Territory border is closed to abalone fishing until further notice.

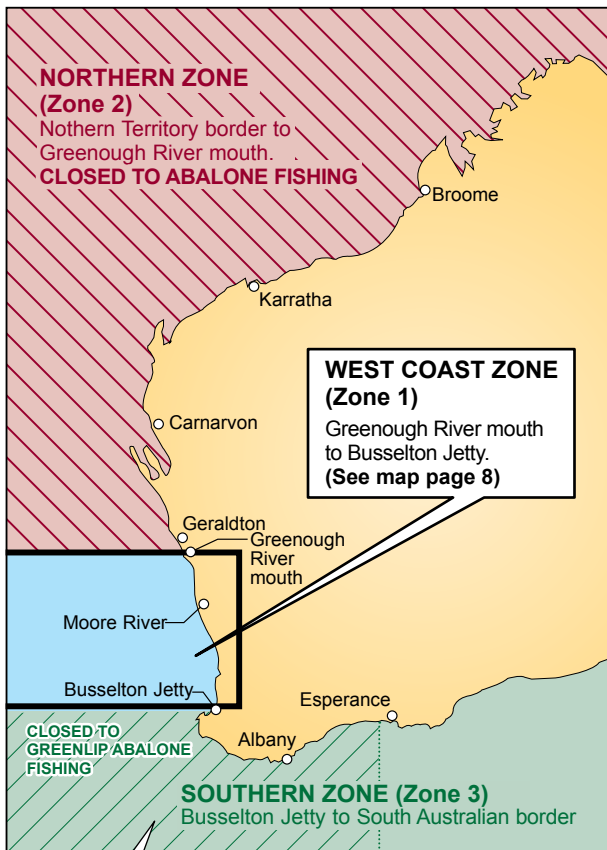

Southern Zone (Zone 3)

The Southern Zone extends from the Busselton Jetty to the South Australian Border.

Open season: The zone is open to abalone fishing between 1 October and 15 May the following year.

Closed area: The area from Busselton Jetty to Shoal Cape is closed to greenlip abalone fishing.

Watermans Reef Observation Area No fishing for abalone, sea urchin or any other shellfish.

Bag limit (maximum)

This is the maximum number of abalone that a licenced fisher may take per day.

Roe's abalone

- 15 per fisher per session in the West Coast Zone (Zone 1)
- 20 per fisher per day in the Southern Zone (Zone 3)

Greenlip/brownlip abalone (combined)

- 5 per fisher per day (Zone 1 or Zone 3)
- Where take of greenlip abalone is prohibited (in Zone 3), a bag limit of 5 brownlip applies

Fishing for greenlip abalone from Busselton Jetty to Shoal Cape is prohibited.

Possession of abalone

A person cannot be in possession of abalone on the seaward side of the high-water mark (the beach) if they are not a licence holder.

If a boat goes out to fish for or take abalone during the season, abalone must be landed within 12 hours.

For Zone 1, all abalone taken must be landed by 8 pm and Fisheries Officers may require you to prove when and where the abalone was taken.

Possession limit

This means the maximum number of abalone you may have in your possession, even if you did not take them all from the sea on the same day. A possession limit of 20 Roe's applies in Zone 1 and a possession limit of 20 Roe's and 10 greenlip/brownlip abalone applies everywhere else except in your permanent place of residence.

The maximum number of abalone a person may have at their permanent place of residence is 80 Roe's abalone and 20 greenlip/brownlip abalone (combined).

Boat limit

A boat limit is the maximum number of abalone permitted on board a boat (except in prohibited areas).

- No boat limit applies to Roe's abalone (refer to bag limits on page 10).
- A maximum of 5 greenlip/brownlip abalone (combined) per licensed fisher per day (or 10 where there are 2 or more licensed fishers on board) may be carried on a boat, except in prohibited areas.

Minimum size

Roe's abalone

- Legal minimum size limit – 60 mm

Greenlip/brownlip abalone

- Legal minimum size limit – 140 mm

It is illegal to take an abalone smaller than the minimum size limit.

Measuring

Before removing abalone from the reef, measure each abalone across the widest part of the shell using an abalone gauge, available from tackle shops. Measuring with anything else, such as a mark on a screwdriver, can lead to mistakes and penalties may apply.

You are legally required to measure each abalone as you collect it. Do not wait to measure and count your catch until after you get to shore.

Once an abalone is in your catch bag, it is considered your catch (bag limit).

Taking abalone from the reef

To remove legal size abalone from the reef, insert a flat blade under the abalone and lift with a quick, strong flick. Carefully count your catch; the bag limit (see page 10) is strictly enforced to protect breeding stocks, so stop fishing once you reach your limit. Taking more abalone and discarding them later puts pressure on the abalone population because discarded animals will probably die and penalties apply.

Shucking

Removing abalone from their shells (shucking) whilst at sea or within 200 m of the high-water mark (beach) is not permitted. Abalone must be left in their shells so their size can be checked by DPIRD staff.

Take your catch home to shuck and clean it. Dispose of any waste responsibly.

Bait ban

The use of abalone meat or any abalone material as fishing bait is prohibited and significant fines apply.

Penalties for illegal fishing

Fishing rules are essential to ensure fishing remains at a sustainable level as per Fish Resources Management Regulations 1995. All fishing may be subject to surveillance by Fisheries and Marine Officers. Fishing out of season, taking undersize or prohibited abalone, fishing in closed waters or having more than your session limit can attract penalties as high as $10,000 plus up to 10 times the dollar value of the species.

It is illegal for recreational fishers to sell their catch. Fines as high as $400,000 plus up to 10 times the prescribed value of the catch – or imprisonment – may apply and you may lose your licence.

Fishers must stay out of the water if they are wearing or carrying any abalone fishing gear until the season starts, and after the season finishes.

Reporting illegal fishing

To report sightings or evidence of illegal fishing activity including the sale of recreationally caught fish, call FishWatch on 1800 815 507 or submit a report online to crimestopperswa.com.au/organisation-report/fishwatch/

Reports made to Crimestoppers are not monitored outside normal working hours or on weekends.

Marine conservation areas

Marmion and Shoalwater Islands Marine Parks

Refer to maps on pages 7-9.

Licensed fishers may take abalone during the open season, except in sanctuary zones and the Murray Reef special purpose (scientific reference) zone in Warnbro Sound. You may not take sea urchin or other shellfish. Open season fishing hours are 7:00 am to 8:00 am (see page 5 for season dates). Bag and size limits apply.

Watermans Reef Observation Area – No fishing

This area surrounds the old WA Marine Research Laboratories at Watermans. It runs from the northern side of Elsie Steet to the southern side of Malcolm Street and extends 300 metres seawards of the high-water mark (beach). All reef life is protected in this area at all times. You may not take any species including abalone, any other shellfish, sea urchin, crab, rock lobster and octopus.

Rottnest Island

You may take abalone during the open season, except in sanctuary zones.

You may not take sea urchin or other shellfish. Bag and size limits apply.

Cottesloe area

You may not fish for or take abalone, sea urchins or any other shellfish from the Cottesloe area, which has been closed since 2003 due to low abalone numbers. This closure runs south of the main Cottesloe groyne to Rous Head.

Ngari Capes Marine Park

This marine park, between Busselton and Augusta, came into effect on 10 April 2019. You may not take abalone in the sanctuary zones.

Safety tips when fishing for abalone

- Carry your catch in a loose-weave net bag; this will allow water to pass through and not become a dragging weight.
- Attach your measuring gauge to your wrist; don't hang it around your neck.
- Study the waves before you get into the water and keep an eye on the swell while fishing – it is easy to be injured on reefs.
- Wear protective footwear and a wetsuit or light clothing that will not become too heavy when wet.
- If you are unsure whether conditions are too rough and not confident to handle the sea conditions, don't go in and consider fishing at a Surf Life Saving Western Australia patrolled location.
- If you do get into trouble in the water, try to stay calm and raise one arm (an international distress signal) to attract help.
- If you choose to fish in an unpatrolled area, please take note of the nearest BEN sign in case of an emergency.

Catch care

Keep your catch in good condition by:

- making sure abalone is legal size, measure each abalone before you take it off the reef

- carefully counting your catch because the bag and size limit is strictly enforced to protect breeding stocks
- placing abalone in a loose-weave net bag, which allows water to flow through it
- storing abalone in a cool, shady place if you are staying longer at the beach.

Biosecurity

To help keep WA's waters pest and disease free, thoroughly clean and dry all gear before moving to another area to fish.

You can also help to protect our valuable aquatic environment by reporting any aquatic pests or diseases (including fish kills) to FishWatch on 1800 815 507.
